

Department of Botany

The department of Botany has conducted various programs for the benefit of the students, staff and others. Various online events were also conducted during lockdown period, so as to keep the students active. We have received good response from our students for all the events conducted. Here is a quick look on the events organized by the department.

1. Plant of the day

It is a healthy practice aimed at introducing as much plants as possible. In this activity each day a student volunteer introduce a plant with its identification and medicinal uses. This activity was very much appreciated by the stakeholders.

2. International Year of fruits and vegetables program series

The UN General assembly designated 2021 the International Year of Fruits and Vegetables (IYFV). The inauguration of the series was organized by the Department of Botany in association with Nature Club on 12th February 2021. Renowned agriculturist and the Treasurer of our college Governing Council, Sri Sediypu Janardhana Bhat had inaugurated the series and addressed the gathering on the importance of Wild Fruits and Vegetables in ensuring nutrition of all living organisms with special reference to human beings. He also stressed upon the fact that maintaining the diversity of such wild fruits and vegetable is important in order to ensure food security when the entire globe is facing the challenges of climate change. Around 80 participants including students and faculty of Botany and Zoology were present and contributed to a lively discussion.

3. Exploring the campus flora

In order to familiarize students with the diversity of plants in their surroundings, healthy exercise on identification of plants within the campus was organized in association with Nature Club on 14th February 2021. Prof. Srikrishna Ganaraja Bhat S., HOD, Dept. of Botany, guided the students in identification aspects. A total of 131 plant species were identified. He also stressed upon the morphological aspects to look for while identifying a plant and placing it under a certain family. This exercise encouraged the students to observe nature more closely paying greater attention to small details. Many students followed up with this activity and started a plant watch in their neighborhood too thus imbibing what they had learned from field work. This essentially exhibits the role of experience and field survey in strengthening what they learn through their curricular content and to pose questions that provides ample scope for discussions on ecosystem balance. A total of 50 students participated and benefited from the program.
